MONTHLY SUMMARY

December started again, with 5 Elliot waves to the downside. However, mid-december welcomes a bullish correction on BTC price. Despite breaking the downtrend line to the top side, the first wave didn't touch the resistance poised at $4352, where it should consolidate the first reversal signal. Afterwards, there's a correction with a ascending bottom, keeping everyone excited with a new movement above the uptrend line. In short, the price is under the averages and the movement is still bearish, making a slight correction to the top.

If the BTC price breaks the uptrend line to the downside, we will probably see a fight on the suporte established on the year low, $3122. Below that, the next support is standing on $2980. To start a new movement to the top, the threshold on $4352 needs to be broken - this mark is below the 0.382 Fibonacci retracement, considering the fall since $6500. This resistance is around $4427. The price can hit this aforementioned mark and still be brought down, keeping the bearish view. A complete reversal could occur if the bulls break the $5615 mark, which is inside the 0.618 zone. Let's wait for 2019 and see what happens.

MONTHLY TIMELINE

- 12/02 This is where the first Elliot wave starts, a new movement;
- 12/05 After the correction, we see the third wave, the biggest of them, bringing the price even lower;
- 12/10 Here, there's the last wave before closing the movement and begin a new one;
- 12/17 There's a strong recovery movement, staying above the ABC Elliot waves, much likely due to:
- 12/19 The closing of CBOE future contracts that, this time, closed in a upward movement that stayed until 20/12;
- 12/28 The closing of CME future contracts, that stayed with a high price and a pivot afetar a correction to the downside;

From this bottom formed at 28/12, we traced a new uptrend line where de Bitcoin price stayed above until the end of the month;
